ON

BAYHAM ABBEY.

BE hush't, ye fair! your monitor survey,
That awfull living legend of the day;
Tread soft, nor rudely press the hallow'd
ground,
Where all is sacred mystery around;
Where nodding reason must perforce awake,
Where passion sleeps while mould'ring ruins speak;
Where silence can some useful lessons teach,
And pour forth all the energy of speech.
Think

Think underneath you tread some friend ador'd,

Whose jocund soul once blest'd the social board ;

Now play'd the hero's, now the lover's part,

Now, for his country bled, now, stole a heart.

He's gone !---cold death inexorably just,
Strikes the dread blow; frail man returns to dust.

Methinks I hear some furrowed monk relate

What frenzy urg'd to BAYHAMS still retreat ;

With vain regret in pensive mood declare
I fought at Agincourt---my trade was war;
The path to fame with eager zeal pursued,
But sunk a victim to ingratitude ;

Then

Then quitting honor and ambitions road,
 Sought an Asylum in the house of GOD.
 Another monk by tottering age oppress'd,

With faltering tongue disburthens thus his breast :

I figured once a Beau, and flattered too,
 Each credulous fair as you and others do;
 To all alike vow'd constancy, and strove To fix each heart unpractis'd yet in love ;

Till genuine ardor warmed my breast at last,
 And disappointment paid me for the past.

Thus robbed of all that passion reckons
 dear, Compunction touch'd my soul and fix'd me here :

The

The curtain drops,—my vain pursuits are o'er,
And life's gay prospect now enchants no more.

Yon Fryar, perchance the idol of an hour, Once rul'd supreme in dignity and power.

A minister of state; what state is worse?

The Princes' favorite, but the nations curse;

The peoples' tyrant, but ambitions slave, Now, doom'd to damn the state, and now to save:

Till tir'd of factions persecuting host,
By friends betray'd, that once had flatter'd most;

He

He seeks like wearied Travellers an home,
And adds one Saint to Bayham's sacred dome.

To this grave moral then ye fair attend,
Life and its pleasures soon must have an end ;
One general summons, hence we all obey,
One fate absorbs this tenement of clay.
Man in his strenght, and beauty in its prime,
Float but as bubbles on th' expanse of time ;
An airy sound that nought of substance wears,
A vision that enchants, then disappears.
Clad

Clad all in regal pomp, e'en Princes must Mix undistinguish'd with the peasants dust;
Heroes together with the coward lye,
And beauty mingle with deformity.
Man struts awhile, by pageant folly
drest,
A Monarch, soldier, politician, priest;
Each acts his part, and when the scene is o'er,
Must tread that path which others trod before;
To tyrant death, e'en youth and beauty
bow,
And M--ln--r be what Queensbury is now.

Tunbridge Wells, 1778.
